News and Information on Latest Developments in Yemen

The Stockholm Agreement

In December 2018, the UN Special Envoy to Yemen, Martin Griffiths, held peace negotiations in Stockholm Sweden between the Yemeni government and the Houthis. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia fully supported these peace negotiations which were internationally recognized as a success. The talks concluded with an agreement to a UN-monitored ceasefire in Hodeidah, a ceasefire in Taiz, a prisoner exchange, and a second round of negotiations in the near future. Without the support of the Saudi-led Coalition, and the support of the United States, it is unlikely that the Houthis would have agreed to sit down with the UN and the legitimate Yemeni government. But, less than one month after the signing of the agreements, the Houthis have committed more than 1000 violations of the Hodeidah ceasefire since the agreement took effect. This included an attack on the UN's World Food Program (WFP) warehouses in the Kilo 7 area in Yemen's port city of Hodeidah as well as an attack on a UN convoy transporting the head of the UN monitoring team in Hodeidah. The Houthis also refused to meet UN deadlines to vacate the Hodeidah port and city and instead reinforced their city defenses.

As recent as March 2, 2019, five children playing at home were killed in an attack as the Houthis have intensified the shelling of the Tuhayta district, south of Hodeida, in violation of the Stockholm agreement.

In stark contrast, the Coalition, the Yemeni government, and the Yemeni military have respected every facet of the Stockholm agreement.

Addressing the Humanitarian Crisis

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced on February 26, 2019, that it is contributing $500 million in new funding for the UN-approved Yemen Humanitarian Response Plan (YHRP) for 2019. This donation increases the support provided by the Kingdom to help the Yemeni people to more than $14 billion since the start of 2014. This new funding is in addition to recently announced aid to support food security and nutrition in Yemen and funding to support teachers' salaries in Yemen.

Saudi Arabia continues to be the largest supporter of Yemen. In contrast, Iran, which supports the Houthis with weapons and military training, has not provided any humanitarian support to the people of Yemen.

Saudi Arabia has also deposited $3 billion to the Central Bank of Yemen to stabilize the Yemeni currency.

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia has allowed Yemenis who fled the civil war and entered the Kingdom illegally to adjust their status and become legal residents. This initiative has enabled more than 600,000 Yemenis to obtain medical care, education, and jobs.

On January 22, 2018, the Coalition launched the Yemen Comprehensive Humanitarian Operations (YCHO). Since then, direct aid delivered under the YCHO Plan has reached over 2 million beneficiaries by land, air and sea. The YCHO Plan established 22 access points in and around Yemen for the delivery of food, fuel, shelter aid and medical supplies.

On March 28, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, and Kuwait followed through on their pledges and made a joint contribution of $1.25 billion to the United Nations' 2018 Yemen Humanitarian Response Plan. The coalition's contribution is the largest in the history of the UN.

Since 2015, the King Salman Center have implemented more than 260 humanitarian and relief projects providing aid to all areas of Yemen. The projects have been implemented in partnership with more than 80 NGOs and INGOs and included projects in health, education, child protection, and social services among other sectors. The Kingdom continues to provide humanitarian aid to all Yemenis irrespective of their political affiliation. As an example Saudi Arabia continues to fund the Al-Salam Hospital in Sa'ada, which is controlled by the Houthis.

These humanitarian efforts are consistently thwarted by the Houthis. The Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator Stephen O'Brien has said that, "Humanitarian workers are prevented from doing their work. Armed Houthi and Saleh forces routinely intimidate, delay and harass humanitarians, threatening the Yemenis' last lifeline with arrests and deportation, or demanding the diversion of humanitarian assistance to their fighters. These are all unacceptable breaches of humanitarian law and humanitarian principles.”

Land Access for Humanitarian Aid

The flow of humanitarian aid and commercial commodities is taking place without impediment or restriction by Saudi Arabia or the Coalition. By land routes alone, Saudi Arabia has facilitated entry of enough aid to benefit millions of Yemenis. The Coalition has established three land ports, Al-Wadeah, Al Khadara and Al Tuwal for humanitarian aid access across the Saudi-Yemeni border. Al-Wadeah has the highest volume of traffic. Regrettably, the Houthi militias controlling provinces on the Yemeni side of the border at the other two land crossings have prevented effective use of these access points for aid.

To date, the number of land access clearances issued by the Coalition is 1,274 out of a total 41,043 clearances for air, land and sea.

AL-WADEAH

The Al-Wadeah land crossing on the border of Saudi Arabia and Yemen has seen extensive use as a port of entry for humanitarian aid moving from Saudi Arabia to Marib in north-central Yemen. In the last week alone, the Coalition issued eight clearances by land for access to Yemen through Al-Wadeah. The Coalition has secured the land route between Al-Wadeah and Marib for humanitarian aid convoys, and has also secured land corridors from Marib to points deep inside Yemen’s interior, allowing international humanitarian agencies to take charge of distribution of relief shipments to their designated destinations. Where possible, aid has been delivered to areas under Houthi control.

Examples of aid crossing into Yemen at Al-Wadeah for delivery into Yemen’s interior include:

- WFP: The UN World Food Programme has distributed 750,000 liters of fuel, out of a total 1 million liters donated to WFP by the King Salman Humanitarian Aid and Relief Centre (KSrelief), and 720 tons of food;
- ICRC: The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) has delivered 1,263 tons of food, 7,735 tons of medical supplies, and 791 tons of other relief commodities in convoys consisting of 521 WFP trucks;
- KSRELIEF: KSrelief has transported and delivered food, shelter aid, medical supplies and other goods in different convoys totalling 1,046 trucks, including 14,514 tons of food (780 trucks); 1,929 tons of medical supplies (144 trucks); 563 tons of shelter aid (88 trucks); 250 tons of educational supplies (23 trucks); and 227 tons of other materials (11 trucks).

About the Yemen Conflict

With the support of Iran, the Houthis initiated the conflict starting in the summer of 2014 and culminating in September of 2014 with the armed assault on Yemen's capital city. In March 2015, Yemen's President Abdrabbuh Mansur Hadi invoked the right of self-defense under Article 51 of the United Nations Charter asking support in repelling the Houthis. Subsequently, Saudi Arabia formed the Coalition to Restore Legitimacy in Yemen in March 2015. In April, the United Nations passed Resolution 2216, demanding that the Houthis, withdraw from all areas seized during the latest conflict, relinquish arms seized from military and security institutions, and cease all actions falling exclusively within the authority of the legitimate Government of Yemen. The Arab Coalition responded to the call for help and prevented the Houthis from taking full control of the country. If the Arab Coalition had not intervened, today, the Iran-backed Houthis would be another Hezbollah, acting as a proxy for Iran, supporting the expansion of the Iranian revolution and threatening American allies in the region, as Houthi leaders have publicly promised to do.

Iran has supported the Houthis with ballistic missiles, a violation of international law as documented by the UN Panel of Experts. Since the start of the conflict in Yemen, the Iranian-backed Houthi militias have fired over 206 ballistic missiles at civilian and commercial centers in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia including Riyadh, in addition to 300 ballistic missiles targeting civilian areas inside Yemen. The transfer of Iranian military technology to the Houthi militias has been well-documented by expert groups such as the Conflict Armament Research.

In addition, Hezbollah military commanders are training Houthi troops in the arts of guerilla warfare and even suicide attacks.

The Saudi Special Forces have raided Houthi training camps and captured intelligence that included video footage showing Hezbollah military specialists training Houthi militias in such strategies and tactics as assassination, suicide attacks, diversion and deception, and guerilla warfare. The training also included strategies and tactics to attempt to fool aerial attacks through camouflage and the disguise of military and civilian locations

About the Houthis

The Houthis are a small minority movement officially called Ansar Allah ("Supporters of God") that emerged in northern Yemen in the 1990s. Following the model of Hezbollah, its leaders are aligned with Iran. The Houthi movement's leader, Abdul Malik al-Houthi, has publicly vowed to fight alongside Hezbollah in a future wars, and al-Houthi recently sent a delegation to Lebanon to meet with Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah.

Houthis have repeatedly violated international humanitarian law such as using child soldiers, shelling civilian areas, and use of human shields. The Houthis expanded their recruitment of child soldiers starting in 2015. Children comprise up to a third of their fighters in Yemen. Houthi forces have also used landmines in Yemen's third-largest city of Taizz which has caused many civilian casualties and prevented the return of families displaced by the fighting. With assistance from Iran, a land-mine production facility was established in Sa'ada, producing around 20 tons of mines per day to distribution hubs in Sana'a, Hodeida, and Dhamar.

The Houthis have arrested, detained and tortured numerous foreign nationals, including Americans. An American contractor, John Hamen, died in a Houthi prison. More Americans continue to be held by the Houthis. Detainees are frequently mistreated and deprived of basic needs, such as food, water and proper hygiene and sanitation conditions. Some are also used as human shields in areas where coalition air strikes are taking place, in clear violation of national and international law.

The IAPHR reported in March 2018 that the organization has documented 1,202 documented cases of Yemeni detainees being used as human shields at 59 makeshift detention centers. IAPHR, which is an umbrella organization for human rights groups in Switzerland, the UK, the Netherlands and Sweden, condemned the Houthis' kidnapping and exploitation as human shields of government supporters, media personnel, and politicians.

In Houthi controlled areas of Yemen, the Houthis have inserted new, radical curriculums into schools. In today's Houthi schoolbooks can be found familiar slogans of the Iranian regime and the Houthi Ansar Allah movement, such as "death to America," and "America is the Great Satan."

Today, Yemeni students are literally fighting for good grades. According to a recently leaked document written by the Houthi Supreme Revolutionary Council, exam boards have been ordered to give any student who misses exams while fighting for the Houthis, a final grade of between 75% and 90%. "I preferred to fight for the Houthi than to take my exams. This way I'm sure to pass,” Abdulsalam Al-Mawri, a student from the government controlled province of Dhamar, said.

Under Houthi control, Yemen is growing more extremist. For women, a reversal of progress has meant that thousands of young girls are now prevented from attending school and thousands more have been denied employment.

The Yemeni Coalition to Monitor Human Rights Violations (YCMHRV) found that the Houthis were responsible for the killing of more than 3,000 Yemeni people, about 20 per cent of whom were women and children. 7,347 civilians have been wounded due to random Houthi shelling, at least 25 per cent of whom were women and children. A total of 5,894 people have been arbitrarily detained, 4,640 of them were released and 1,254 people remain in captivity. According to the report, 2,260 people were killed and 2,780 injured due to Houthi attacks, sniper assaults, planting mines, illegal executions, death under torture and other means of killing. Among those killed were 337 children, 140 women and 128 elderly. A total of 544 children, 283 women and 179 elderly were among those injured. It said that it has also documented “brutal” torture against 206 detainees, 27 of whom died in prisons in Ibb, Sa’ada, Hodeidah and Taiz. Forty-one detainees were killed because they were used by Houthi militias as human shields.

Another report found the Houthis responsible for:

- the killing of 14,220 civilians including 1,500 children and 865 women
- injury of 31,127 other civilians
- the injury or killing of 1,593 civilians through landmines
- the forcible disappearance of 21,706 people
- the torturing of 86 people to death
- the arrest and violations of human rights of 627 journalists.

Another example of Houthi atrocities followed the assassinated of former Yemeni President Ali Abdullah Saleh, murdered after cancelling his alliance with the Houthi and joining the Saudi-led military coalition. After the incident, Yemen's permanent representative to the United Nations, Khaled Hussein al-Yemany said that the Houthi militias rounded up and killed over a 1,000 military and political leaders of the General People's Congress, Saleh's political party as well as his presidential guards. At that time, The European Union (EU) issued a statement calling for an end to these Houthi atrocities saying, “We are hearing of brutal repression, serious harassment, arbitrary detention and killing which are being carried out by the Houthis against politicians of the General People's Congress and urged the Houthis to “immediately stop all reported violations of basic human rights.”

Achieving Peace through a Political Solution

The international community and people of Yemen have already established what peace should look like. UN Security Council Resolution 2216, the GCC Initiative and the National Dialogue Conference outcomes serve as three essential references for resolving this conflict peacefully and politically. UNSCR 2216 unequivocally states that the Houthis must “immediately” lay down their arms and return seized territory to the legitimate Yemeni government. The GCC Initiative and the National Dialogue Conference outcomes address the political question by including fair representation for the Houthi political party in an internationally recognized, democratic government. All of this is achievable if the Houthis could agree on a peaceful resolution to this conflict.

Statement: Saudi Arabia Donates an Additional USD $500 Million to Yemen Humanitarian Response Plan

Date: February 26, 2019

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced on Tuesday that it is contributing USD $500 million in new funding for the UN-approved Yemen Humanitarian Response Plan (YHRP) for 2019. This donation increases the support provided by the Kingdom to help the Yemeni people to more than USD $14 billion since the start of 2014.

The announcement of the latest funding was made by His Excellency Dr. Abdullah Al Rabeeah, Advisor to the Royal Court and General Supervisor of the King Salman Humanitarian Aid and Relief Center (KSrelief), during the annual High-Level Pledging Event of the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) held in Geneva.

"I am pleased to announce that Saudi Arabia is donating USD $500 million to finance the Yemen Humanitarian Response Plan approved by the United Nations for 2019," Dr Al Rabeeah said in his speech.

He said Saudi Arabia is pleased to announce its readiness to host the Yemen pledging conference in 2020 in the Saudi capital Riyadh.

Dr Al Rabeeah said the new funding is in addition to recently announced aid such as "Imdaad" initiative to support food security and nutrition in Yemen, for the amount of USD $500 million split equally between Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, as well as a payment of USD $70 million split equally between Kingdom and the UAE to help pay teachers' salaries in Yemen. He also cited the programs and initiatives by KSrelief, and the Saudi Development and Reconstruction Program for Yemen (SDRPY), which aims to implement development program to support the stability of Yemen.

"We meet today as the Yemeni people look forward to the outcome of our meeting to overcome the humanitarian, security and economic challenges that they face because of the inhumane practices of the Houthi militias. Despite the great efforts of the United Nations and the international community, Yemen is still suffering a lot because of the intransigence of these militias and their failure to respond to the resolutions of the United Nations and the international community,” he said in his speech.

“Humanitarian action in Yemen faces significant challenges as a result of the negative practices of these militias, which obstruct the access of humanitarian aid and seek to target and seize it,” Dr Al Rabeeah said, adding that 12 of these breaches have been monitored since the signing of Stockholm Agreement and up to now, including the laying of mines and the denial of access to the Red Sea Mills in Hodeidah.

The ambassador of the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques and the supervisor of the Saudi Development and Reconstruction Program for Yemen (SDRPY), Mohammed bin Saeed Al Jaber said that the Kingdom has always been keen to support the Yemeni economy and the Central Bank of Yemen, with USD $2.2 billion most recently in addition to the previous deposit of USD $1 billion.

Al Jaber said the Kingdom has always been, and continues to be, the largest supporter of Yemen and the United Nations Humanitarian Response Plan announced in 2018.

To help fund that plan, Saudi Arabia and the UAE have provided USD $1 billion, split equally, while Kuwait donated USD $250 million. USD $70 million of the total has been allocated for the rehabilitation of ports and roads, and providing cranes in the ports of Aden, Mukalla, Nishtun and Socotra. This initiative aimed to increase the capacity of these ports, and the volume of relief and trade imports, which reached 2.7 million metric tons of foodstuffs, fuel products, medical supplies, and other materials during the first half of 2018.

In addition to this, he said there were various programs and initiatives being implemented by SDRPY in health, education, energy, transport, water, agriculture and fisheries to support the economy, maintain security and stability, and provide employment opportunities for the brotherly Yemeni people.

The support provided by Saudi Arabia to the Yemeni people, in partnership with KSrelief as well as international and regional humanitarian organizations, was not limited to providing food and humanitarian assistance to millions of beneficiaries, but also includes supporting Yemen with oil derivatives, Al Jaber said. He stressed on the importance of this support of USD $60 million monthly to Yemen’s electricity stations, which contributed effectively to the continued delivery of electricity to many Yemeni governorates without interruption, benefiting 18 million people.

He said that the support has also contributed to easing pressure on the Yemeni government budget, effectively contributing to the disbursement of salaries of state employees, especially health and education workers, and helped the Yemeni government to strengthen its capacity to implement service projects.

Al Jaber said that the financial support provided by Saudi Arabia, UAE and Kuwait has been spent on the programs of 12 United Nations organizations operating in 11 sectors, including food security, health, water, and sewage, in addition to partnerships established with 86 United Nations and international organizations, which have had a significant impact on Yemeni society.

Op-ed: Congress: Please consider the consequences of your resolutions on Yemen

Date: February 6, 2019

Years of Houthi aggression have left my nation pockmarked and weary, consumed by the world's worst humanitarian crisis and desperate for peace. Yet, we haven't given up hope. We believe a political solution that will protect and empower all Yemeni people is within reach. After three years of stonewalling, the Iran-backed Houthis are slowly moving toward the negotiating table. But the congressional resolution introduced by Rep. Ro Khanna (D-Calif.) to remove all U.S. support for the Arab Coalition in Yemen will not help our quest for peace, instead will deliver a massive victory to Iran and embolden the extremist Houthi militias to continue terrorizing our country, as they have done for the past five years. If passed, this resolution will only serve to prolong the conflict and deepen the crisis.

There is so much that is misunderstood about the conflict in Yemen. First, this is not a "Saudi war." The conflict today is between the elected government of Yemen and its people against a racist and radical militia – the Houthis – who would end democracy in Yemen and become another Hezbollah that is controlled by Iran, intent on threatening the region. In 2015, the Iran-backed Houthis stormed the capital and violently overthrew the government. President Hadi and his legitimate government called upon the Arab Coalition to assist in our fight against the Houthi threat. Their support has also been critical in combatting Al-Qaeda. The technical and advisory support of the United States to the Arab Coalition directly contributes to the security and stability of Yemen and the broader region.

Yemen is one part of an Iranian strategy to extend its revolution to the region. Iranian leaders have boasted that Sanaa, my capital, is under Iran's control, along with three other Arab capitals – Beirut, Baghdad and Damascus. The Houthis are yet another proxy in a campaign of violent expansionism that poses a serious threat to the peace and security of the world and must be confronted and contained.

Just who are the Houthis? To understand this group, you don't have to look much further than what is printed on their flag, which reads: "God is Great, Death to America, Death to Israel,

Curse the Jews, and Victory to Islam. This motto is partially modelled on the motto of revolutionary Iran. In March of 2018, the Houthi movement's leader, Abdul Malik al-Houthi, vowed to fight alongside Hezbollah in a future war with Israel, and al-Houthi recently sent a delegation to Lebanon to meet with Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah. The Houthis have also devised an egregious political manifesto further to their slogan, which is laced with anti-American and anti-Semitic fervor. And they also profess a divine right to rule over all of Yemen. Indeed, their authority would be called an "Houthiocracy", combining the worst elements of both an autocratic and theocratic regime as evident and inspired by their Iranian patrons, and where a minority group with despotic tendencies are oppressing the general population under its control.

In Yemen, the Houthis have executed a brutal guerrilla war using illegal and internationally banned tactics, including child soldiers, human shields, land mines, ballistic missiles aimed at civilian targets in Saudi Arabia and other acts of terrorism. The Houthi flag, their words and actions should not leave any doubt as to where the United States should lend its support in this conflict and we hope that members of Congress will think twice before taking actions that will benefit the Iranian agenda.

Only a peaceful, political resolution can bring an end to the war in Yemen and especially one that respects the GCC Initiative, the National Dialogue Conference Outcomes and UN Security Council Resolution 2216 (i.e., the Three References). But as far back as 2013, there have been a number of serious attempts to work with the Houthis to create a framework for peace. Yet each time we were close to an agreement, the Houthis reneged and ultimately walked away from negotiations, preferring to continue their military assault on the capital and other territories. Faced with this history, it is clear that unless the Houthis are met with combined political and military pressures and denying them sources of support from Iran, such as fuel, hard currency and weapons being illegally smuggled to them by land or sea, they will wage war indefinitely. Our hope is to reach a negotiated peace, but we will not be able to reach that objective without the continued support of the Arab coalition and the support of the United States.

The world, except for Iran and Houthis, wants the same thing – a peaceful resolution in Yemen. We have found a path to peace and it is working. We should not undermine the progress we are making now and instead of pulling back, the U.S. needs to support us through the combination of negotiation and pressure. If our allies withdraw, then we fear that the crisis we want to solve will only intensify, leading to more destruction and the loss of more innocent lives, not less.

The Government of the Republic of Yemen urges all members of Congress to reassess their stance appealing for the withdrawal of U.S. support from this conflict, and to consider the profound consequences and negative effect this would have on our shared security interests in both the U.S. and region.

Op-ed: Keep Your Revolution to Yourself, Iran

Date: February 14, 2019

Iran's government is celebrating four decades of "revolution." Since 1979, it has exported violent destabilization to Lebanon, Syria, Iraq and my country, Yemen, and sponsored terrorist attacks on almost every continent. Iran's leaders have enriched themselves at the expense of their people, and intimidated nations far beyond their borders. Happy 40th anniversary!

But leave us out of it. For four years, war has afflicted Yemen's people, precipitated by the Iran-backed Houthi militias' coup in Sana'a and attempted takeover of the country. As President Abdrabbuh Mansur Hadi has rightfully affirmed, Yemenis want no part of Iran's revolution. They want a government that answers to them, not to Iran's Revolutionary Guard.

Yemenis abhor sectarianism. We reject the Iranian model that pits communities against each other. Yemenis are humble. We lack the natural resources of our neighbors, and harbor no ambitions of playing geopolitics among great powers.

But we pride ourselves on our independence and rich cultural heritage. Yemen is our home, where one of the world's oldest civilizations developed and Arabs trace their ancestral roots. Where caravans departed on distant missions of peaceful commerce. Where a famous coffee variety originates, named for the port of Mocha.

Before this war, we believed our best days were still to come. We completed a peaceful transfer of power in 2011, followed by a national dialogue giving voice to all Yemenis. We learned the hard way that this inclusivity was incompatible with Iranian expansionism. As one senior Iranian official told Reuters, "Winning the battle in Yemen will help define the balance of power in the Middle East."

Tehran never consulted us when choosing Yemen as the next theater of its revolutionary campaign. It offends Yemenis when Iran boasts of adding Sana'a to Baghdad, Beirut and Damascus as Arab capitals "belonging to the Islamic Iranian revolution."

What has Iran's power play in Yemen meant for us? Iranian guns turned on Yemeni citizens. Iranian land mines on our farms. Iranian trainers teaching extremists to use Yemenis as human shields. Iranian drones firing at peaceful parades. Iranian missiles launched from our soil at neighboring countries.

We have learned firsthand that peace doesn't mix with Iran's "revolution." Yemen's legitimate government wants peace. To get it, we would look past countless atrocities and include the Houthis in a restarted political dialogue.

We wholeheartedly endorse United Nations special envoy Martin Griffiths's mediation efforts. We had a breakthrough in December when the Houthis agreed to withdraw from Hodeidah and allow aid to reach Yemenis in need. But instead of leaving, they sent reinforcements. They violated the cease-fire more than 400 times and stymied U.N. officials and aid workers. Iran did not pressure the Houthis to uphold the agreement. And more proof emerged, this time from the United Kingdom, of how Iran fuels the conflict.

For Yemen's sake, something has to change. The world must apply pressure on the Houthis and their Iranian enablers. Yemen needs negotiation backed by genuine action. We need real political dialogue. We need compromise and coexistence.

What Yemen doesn't need is the Iranian revolution.

Letter to Senator Chris Murphy (D-CT)

EMBASSY OF
THE REPUBLIC OF YEMEN
Washington, DC

سفارة الجمهورية اليمنية
واشنطن

February 21, 2019

The Honorable Chris Murphy
Senator, Member Committee on Foreign Relations
136 Hart Senate Office Bldg.
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Murphy,

Over the past several years, you have become a prominent advocate for the people of Yemen, turning the attention of Congress and the American people to their suffering as the Iran-backed Houthis wage war in Yemen. We made significant progress toward a political solution with the Stockholm Agreements last December, but to reach a sustainable peace there is still much work to be done.

I deeply respect your commitment to improving Yemen's current humanitarian crisis, and I am grateful for your efforts to help my country in your capacity as a United States Senator. However, misinformed media reports and inadequate coverage of the conflict in Yemen have created confusion about several aspects of the war, notably the delivery and distribution of humanitarian aid.

The media has painted a misleading picture of the flow of humanitarian aid to Yemen. Some suggest mistakenly that all aid is being choked off because 70% or even 80% has to move through Hodeida. That's simply not true. The coalition, alongside the Yemeni government has opened numerous ports, roads, airports and land crossing throughout the country. Today, there is greatly improved access and means to distribute aid in the country. And the Yemeni government has signed the Hodeida agreements that were reached in Stockholm last December under the supervision of the UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths, which will allow the UN to monitor the port instead of the Houthi militias.

Unfortunately, the Iran-backed Houthis frequently hoard, steal or destroy the humanitarian aid delivered to Hodeida, which renders the shipments ineffective. The Houthis also threaten, abuse and extort humanitarian aid workers that are trying to help the people of Yemen.

Most recently, the Houthis bombed the Red Sea Grain Mills in Hodeida, which contain 25% of all the World Food Programme (WFP) wheat supplies in Yemen. This horrendous attack threatens millions of Yemenis with starvation and aggravates food insecurity in the entire region. Further, as reported in the New York Times, the Houthis have planted more than one million mines throughout the country, "one for every thirty Yemenis," and these armaments impede aid delivery and put the lives of UN aid officials, NGO workers, Yemeni citizens and coalition forces at risk.

Dave Harden of the Georgetown Strategy Group explained the reality to the House Foreign Affairs Committee earlier this month: "The Houthis could end the humanitarian crisis tomorrow. They are the only actor that actually has that capability."

I urge you to further your mission of alleviating the humanitarian situation in Yemen by turning your attention to the Iran-backed Houthis, who have done everything in their power to exacerbate living conditions for Yemenis and obfuscate the on-the-ground reality to reduce international pressure. It is only through the combined political, military and diplomatic pressure of the international community that we can ensure that the Houthis respect the 2018 Stockholm agreements.

The Government of Yemen will continue to uphold these agreements. We hope the Houthis can reciprocate by ending hostilities and building on the positive steps toward peace we made under the supervision of UNSE Martin Griffiths. The Houthis must respect the Stockholm Agreement and relinquish control of Hodeida port and city to the UN so humanitarian efforts can be effective in the region. Until this occurs, the UN can access many other ports in Yemen to distribute humanitarian aid and facilitate the delivery of commercial shipments.

You and others in Congress assert that cutting off US support for the coalition will somehow improve the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. It will not. If Congress wants to help, it must engage with the Yemeni government, the coalition and the UN to pressure the Houthis to respect signed agreements and participate in good faith in the UN-led negotiation process.

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and other members of the Arab Coalition have contributed more than $10 billion in aid and other humanitarian relief efforts since the start of the conflict. Yemen is profoundly grateful to the United States for the more than $1 billion in aid that it has contributed. Iran on the other hand, has contributed nothing in humanitarian aid but conversely has wreaked humanitarian misery. Thus, we need your help to compel the Houthis to allow international aid to reach those in need in their controlled territory and to resolve this tragic conflict once and for all

I would welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss this critical issue.

Respectfully,

Ahmed bin Mubarak, PhD

The Honorable Mr. Charles E. Schumer
Minority Leader — United States Senate
322 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Leaders McConnell and Schumer:

I would like to begin by thanking you for your concern about Yemen, and your determination to ease the pain of my people, who suffer daily at the hands of the Iran-aligned Houthi extremist militia. I look forward to the opportunity to work with you both as we seek our shared objective, which is a peaceful resolution to the conflict and re-establishment of Yemen as a free, democratic and developing nation.

Unfortunately, the War Powers Resolution that will soon be acted upon in the Senate, and which was recently re-introduced by the Honorable Representative Rohit Khanna in the House of Representatives, does not lead to that shared objective. This resolution calling for the removal of U.S. support to the Arab Coalition in Yemen poses a serious threat to the people of Yemen and the entire global community by allowing Iran to continue its expansionist agenda and emboldening the Iran-backed Houthi militia to further prolong the conflict. While this resolution intends to help my people, I can assure you that this legislation would do the opposite. This War Powers Resolution will worsen the living conditions of Yemenis already under the threat of Houthi terror and lead to sustained war that will exacerbate the humanitarian crisis and increase the loss of innocent lives.

As you know, Yemen suffers from the worst humanitarian crisis in the world. Thousands of men, women and children have lost their lives, millions live under the constant threat of starvation, ten thousand new cases of cholera have been observed and the majority of the population relies on international humanitarian aid to meet their basic needs. Last week, the House Foreign Affairs Committee heard testimony from a range of experts on Yemen and this panel was unanimous: "The Houthis could end the humanitarian crisis tomorrow. They are the only actor that has that capability." This quote from Dave Harden, of the Georgetown Strategy Group, was affirmed by other witnesses present at the Hearing including Jake Sullivan of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and Mike Singh of the Washington Institute on Near East Policy.

There is neither a famine nor a dearth of food supplies in Yemen. Indeed, there is enough food. The Houthis, however, have manipulated food deliveries at our ports, obstructed its distribution and even extorted aid workers who are trying to deliver crucial supplies to in-need areas. In addition (and behaving as "Houthieves"), the Houthis have embezzled funds or exploited reserves from banks in their controlled territories, causing a sharp devaluation of our currency. Thus, while the food is there, Yemenis in Houthi-controlled territory cannot afford it.

Western observers often misunderstand the conflict in Yemen. This is not a "Saudi war." The Arab Coalition did not start this war. The Houthis did participate in the National Dialogue Conference, which was launched and lauded for avoiding conflict in Yemen. The Houthis were given significant representation therein. However, in the end, they violently overthrew the government, murdering hundreds of Yemenis in the process.

As a result, in March 2015, Yemen's President Abdrabuh Mansour Hadi justly sought help from the GCC for support in fighting the Houthis. It was only then that the Arab Coalition intervened in the conflict, joining Yemeni government forces to combat the Houthi militias and their Iranian allies. Still, the Houthis were able to establish a reign of terror over Yemeni citizens and begun recruiting child soldiers to their forces, deploying land mines around cities, using schools, mosques and historical landmarks as hiding spots and holding innocents inside as human shields. The Houthis even ransacked our central bank, stealing billions of dollars to put into their war effort while extorting Yemeni businesses to further fill their coffers.

Senators McConnell and Schumer, there is only one way to end the war in Yemen and put a stop to the humanitarian catastrophe: a peaceful and political solution. However, persuading the Houthis to negotiate in good faith has been a difficult task over the past several years. As far back as 2013, there have been attempts to work with the Houthis to create a framework for peace. Each time we come close to an agreement, the Houthis walk away, preferring to continue their torment of the Yemeni people. On several occasions, the Houthis have flat out refused to even show up to peace talks. The only method that has successfully brought the Houthis to the negotiation table has been combined political, military and diplomatic pressure from a coalition of international allies.

This pressured resulted in positive talks last December in Sweden, when UN Special Envoy to Yemen Martin Griffiths arranged peace negotiations between the Yemeni government and the Houthi extremists over the course of eight days. These talks were a success, as both parties agreed to an UN-monitored ceasefire in Hodeidah port and city, a ceasefire in Taiz, a prisoner exchange, and a second round of negotiations in the near future. Without the support of the Saudi-led Coalition, and the indispensable support of the United States, it is unlikely that the Houthis would have agreed to sit down with the UN and the legitimate Yemeni government.

Already, nearly two months after the signing of these agreements, the Houthis have walked back their commitment to the ceasefire in Hodeidah and the prisoner exchange, proving once again that they are not committed to peace. This disappointing development followed the U.S. Senate's decision to pass your initial resolution calling for the removal of U.S. support to the Coalition.

Unless we maintain consistent political, military and diplomatic pressure on the Houthis, they will perpetuate this conflict in an endless war that satisfies their violent revolutionary ideology and entrenches Yemen in an enduring humanitarian crisis. For the humanitarian crisis to end, the Houthis must relinquish control of Hodeidah port and all other occupied territories, and allow the UN to supervise and regulate imports, as agreed upon in the December 2018 Stockholm Agreement.

Yemen doesn't just need aid, it needs free and open commerce, and for that to happen the Houthis must respect the agreement signed in Stockholm last year and end their abuse of imports through Hodeida and Houthi-controlled territory. The international community and people of Yemen have already established what peace should look like. The GCC Initiative, the National Dialogue Conference outcomes and United Nations Security Council Resolution 2216, serve as the essential Three References for resolving this conflict peacefully and politically. UNSCR 2216 unequivocally states that the Houthis must "immediately" lay down their arms and return seized territory to the legitimate Yemeni government. The GCC Initiative and the National Dialogue Conference outcomes address the political question by including fair representation for the Houthis in an internationally recognized, democratic government. All of this would hold true today if the Houthis could agree on a peaceful resolution to this conflict.

I urge you and your colleagues in the Senate to consider all of this while debating the resolution to withdraw US support from this conflict. This resolution would have a significant negative impact on the humanitarian crisis, and on our shared and strategic security interests in the region, particularly in countering Al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP).

Senators McConnell and Schumer, our sincere hope is to reach a negotiated peace and end the suffering of our people, but we cannot reach that objective without the continued support of the Arab coalition and the support of the United States. We cherish and wish to strengthen continuously our bilateral ties with the United States of America.

I am ready to discuss this personally further with you at any time.

Very Respectfully,
Dr. Ahmed Awad BinMubarak
Ambassador of Yemen to the United States of America

Statement of the Embassy of the Republic of Yemen

January 30, 2019

The Embassy of Yemen in Washington, D.C. is extremely concerned about the War Powers Resolution re-introduced by the Honorable Representative Ro Khanna. This resolution to remove all US support for the Arab Coalition in Yemen would deliver a massive victory to Iran who are supporting the extremist Houthi militias that have terrorized our country for the past five years and whose vehement anti-American and anti-Semitic views are enshrined in their slogan and political doctrine.

In 2015, the Iran-backed Houthis stormed the capital and violently overthrew the government. President Hadi and his legitimate government called upon the Arab Coalition to assist in our fight against the Houthi threat. Their support has also been critical in combatting Al-Qaeda. The tactical and advisory support of the United States to the Arab Coalition directly contributes to the security and stability of Yemen and the broader region, and helps counteract Iranian aggression in the region.

While a political solution is the only way to end this conflict and noting the established three references, consistent military pressure has also played an integral role in advancing the prospects for peace. This past December, UN Special Envoy to Yemen Martin Griffiths succeeded in convening peace negotiations between the legitimate Yemeni government and the Iran-backed Houthi extremists in Sweden. For the first time since in Kuwait in 2016, the Houthis actually showed up to peace talks, a direct result of the steady military pressure exerted on Houthi militias by Coalition and Yemeni forces.

However, the Honorable Representative Ro Khanna's War Powers Resolution would only further embolden the Houthi extremists, and serve the interests of their Iranian backers who espouse hegemonic ambitions for the region and dominant influence over strategic waterways. If the US ends its involvement in the conflict, Iran will be empowered to continue their encroachment onto the Arabian Peninsula, threatening the stability of the entire region and the national security of the United States; and their support to the Houthis would sustain the violent aggressions perpetrated against the Yemeni people.

The Government of the Republic of Yemen urges the Honorable Mr. Khanna and other members of Congress to reassess their stance appealing for the withdrawal of US support from this conflict, and to consider the profound negative effect this would have on our shared security interests in both the US and the Middle East.
